

Emergency drinking water distribution completed in Texas

For Immediate Release

VISTA, Calif. – (March 12, 2021) – The distribution of a total of 3.5 million liters of Ready America’s highly-accredited Aqua Literz emergency drinking water was completed Friday to vulnerable communities across the state of Texas.

The extended 10-year shelf-life emergency Aqua Literz drinking water was deployed to Texas following the severe winter weather that swept across the region in late February.

Winter storm Uri caused massive power outages and damaged the state’s water infrastructure in more than 70 counties, which resulted in a presidential disaster declaration for Texas.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), in conjunction with the Texas Division of Emergency Management, delivered Ready America’s emergency drinking water to the Naval Air Station Joint Reserve Base in Fort Worth. The water was then distributed by the Texas National Guard, US Department of Defense and FEMA to residents in need across the Lone Star State.

“Crews from these federal services combined to complete an incredible job under extremely trying conditions to distribute our emergency drinking water by helicopter, plane and truck,” said Ready America CEO Dean Reese.

“Safe drinking water is one of the essentials that help us survive and we were extremely pleased to have been able to provide this essential commodity to everyone who needed it in parts of Texas.”

The growing list of satisfied customers that order Aqua Literz and Aqua Blox emergency drinking water includes FEMA, City of New York OEM, New Jersey Department of Homeland Security, New Hampshire OEM, South Carolina OEM and Tenet HealthCare of America.

“These valued customers continue to re-order our emergency supplies because they recognize that we have proven, affordable and accredited solutions for their needs,” said Mr Reese.
